Log Line

On the 13th day the Hunter violates an ancient treaty - and becomes the hunted.

Synopsis

Day 13: While clearing his traps the Hunter arrives at a road barrier he knows he should never cross.

However, greed, arrogance and sheer defiance drive him across it. In his eyes he is the Lord of this realm. He has the power of life and death, which he uses ruthlessly.

But there is a power greater than him who exercises the same right.

The hunter had his choice, and he chose badly.

Director's biography

DIRECTOR - RANGITAWAEA TIWAI REEDY
Rangitawaea Tiwai Reedy is based in the small coastal region of Ruatoria on the East Coast of the North Island of New Zealand. 13 Days Out is his first short film.

Reedy has extensive experience directing television drama including the award winning Moko Toa television drama series aimed at youth, which used computer generated images integrated with live action.

Moko Toa was unique to New Zealand television, becoming the first Maori language series to be dubbed into English due to audience demand.

Reedy is developing a feature film based on the Moko Toa series.

Reedy has extensive experience in film and commercials as a First AD and as a Floor Manager for television. He also won an award for his work as AD on Once Were Warriors.

Writer's biography

Jon Coutts is one of those rarities in New Zealand, a full time writer.

He is the writer of several short films in both NZ and Australia, wrote several one-off television drama and was the writer and editor of the award winning Moko Toa series.

Jon is presently developing a television drama series and several feature films.
